Abstract: The Quick Referral Guide is a compilation of agencies used by the Case Managers at Aging and Adult Services - Monterey County Department of Social and Employment Services. First, it aids the social worker to refer the client to the appropriate agency. Second, it empowers the client to self-refer.
Executive Summary

For my capstone project, I developed a user-friendly agency referral guide—titled Quick Referral Guide (QRG)—that will be available on paper and on the website of the Monterey County Department of Social and Employment Services/Aging and Adult Services. This referral guide includes contact information for local community agencies that provide services the clients request from the following programs: In Home Supportive Services, Linkages, Multipurpose Seniors Services Program, and Adult Protective Services.

The QRG includes two components. The first component assists Case Managers with the referral process. It includes the referral agency contact information, services offered, and eligibility information. The second component will be a simple, user-friendly page with agency name, contact information, and a summary of services. This document is to be photocopied and given to a client if the Case Manager feels it is appropriate. The goal is to encourage the client to remain self-sufficient by accessing resources independently. These client self-refer pages are in English and Spanish to meet the needs of the diverse ethnic backgrounds of the clients served at Aging and Adult Services (AAS). The Quick Referral Guide contains useful information that can be of great value to the Case Managers as well as the clientele served.

The purpose of this user-friendly guide is to assist Case Managers with the referral process. In addition, the QRG is a way of providing referral information directly to the client so that he/she can self-refer. This referral guide is different than the other resource guides currently available. This guide highlights the agencies that receive the most referrals from AAS staff. Because many clients face the same challenges, the QRG allows Case Managers to provide information directly and quickly to the client.

The QRG evaluation proved its effectiveness by a 57% increase on expediting service delivery to AAS’ clients after its use by the Case Managers. Though challenging the QRG needs regular updates. I recommend for the assigned desk duty Case Manager to update the QRG monthly according to an online forum with the input of all Case Managers. Making sure the QRG’s information is current will ensure its lasting value to Aging and Adult Services.
Description of the agency and the program

The Aging and Adult Services department within Monterey County Department of Social Services (MCDSES) is where I am doing my Collaborative Health and Human Services internship. This is the selected department to do this Capstone project. The MCDSES serves an estimated 60,000 residents through a variety of services. These services include public benefit programs, employment services, supportive services for children and their families, Veterans, the elderly, and adults with disabilities. This is the designated agency in charge of the prevention and investigation of child, dependent adult and elder abuse in Monterey County (Monterey County Department of Social and Employment Services brochure).

The Aging and Adult Services department within MCDSES provides assistance to adults with disabilities, seniors, and their family caregivers. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the number of elderly and dependent adults continues to increase, and the post second world war, 78.2 million baby boomers will be requiring help with their daily tasks as they are aging (High Quality Institute, 2006). Health care and social services for this growing population are necessary. The Aging and Adult Services department provides a number of services to this population through the following programs: In Home Supportive Services, Linkages Case Management Services, Multipurpose Senior Services Program (MSSP), AIDS Case Management Services, the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) Advocacy Program, Adult Protective Services, and senior information/ referral services (Monterey County Department of Social and Employment Services brochure).
Population served

In addition to working with the elderly and the disabled the Aging and Adult Services department also works with a culturally and ethnically diverse population. The largest group is Hispanic, though other ethnic populations include Caucasian, African-American, Asian, European and Pacific Islanders. While working with a diversity of cultures, Case Managers need to be aware of the different cultures and customs in order to meet the needs of each client in a respectful and ethical manner. Writer Gelfand promotes culture sensitivity while working with clients from different ethnic backgrounds in his book Aging and ethnicity: Knowledge and services (1994). This is the key to understand the many immigrants living in the United States using the services of the Aging and Adult Services.

It is important to learn about the services needed by the disabled and senior population being served by Aging and Adult Services. Gelfand provides a broad overview of the public and private programs and services offered to the older population in the United States to understand the services being offered to this population. Income maintenance, health insurance, examining private pension plans and public programs such as Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, and Medicare are topics addressed in this book that are of relevant interest to understanding the elderly population being served by the Aging and Adult Services (2006). This writer broadens the reader’s view of the possible programs and services available to the elderly in the United States. On the final chapters, the author introduces services in the areas of in home support services, adult day care versus long-term care residences which are the core of Aging and Adult Services - to keep clients in their houses providing in home care services to avoid institutionalization.

Issue to be addressed

The need to expedite services to clients is the issue to be addressed. Requests for services and/or supplies sit on MCSES Aging and Adult Services program managers’ desks for up to two months before the program managers meet these clients’ needs or requests. Additionally, there is the time that it takes to purchase the items or contact the agency providing the requested service due to the Case Managers (social workers) not having access to the information when being at a client’s house. Some services and supplies provided to clients do not need prior referral from the program managers. Many times services could be expedited if Case Managers would have the knowledge of which services can be provided to the clients without having to wait for the program manager’s referral.

Capstone Project Description

My Capstone project provides a user-friendly Quick Referral Guide (QRG) for clients of In Home Supportive Services, Linkages, MSSP, and Adult Protective Services programs. The QRG identifies the local participating agencies and their available services and supplies. The QRG is also available to AAS staff as an intranet resource within the agency’s website.

The Aging and Adult Services currently utilizes the Alliance on Aging Senior Resource Guide. It is a very descriptive tool that focuses on providing community agencies services information for Case Managers to do referrals (Alliance on Aging Guide to Resources for Seniors, 2007). The QRG was designed with the AAS’s Case Managers’ feedback to be tailored specifically for the clients they serve. It is user friendly, summarized and straightforward where one can access all the information at once.

My project has two components, the QRG page for the Case Manager and a simplified informational page for the clients. The first component includes the participating referral agencies, their contact information, and their scope of services. It also indicates whether or not the Case Manager can refer the services or supplies at the time of the client’s home visit or phone call and the process to access it. The second component is a simple, user-friendly page with agency name, contact information, and a summary of their services to be given to the client or the client’s primary caregiver to self-refer if the Case Manager feels that is appropriate. The client referral page is provided both in English and Spanish in order to meet the needs of the diverse clients.

According to Resources for People with Disabilities and Chronic Conditions if regularly updating the “products and services that contribute to achieving the maximum level of independence possible for people with disabilities, one is being sensitive to the variety of needs and circumstances of each client (Seaman, 1991). By referring the client to the appropriate community agency, the Case Manager is empowering the client to be self-sufficient and to advocate for himself/herself.

The initial step for this Capstone project was to obtain the correct information about each of the participating agencies, including their scope of services and contact information. The primary agencies that provide services and supplies for MCDSES
Aging and Adult Services’ clients are Monterey Peninsula Meals on Wheels, Salinas Valley Meals on Wheels, Alliance on Aging, Health Projects Center/Del Mar Caregivers Resource Center, Kinship Center: Family Ties, Visiting Nurse’s Association and Hospice - Salinas Adult Day Center, Alzheimer’s Association – Northern California, Carmel Foundation, Salinas Adult School - Creative Living Center/Rejuvenation and Education Assistance Program (REAP), and Legal Services for Seniors.

The second step for this project involves an educational component. This is important since this is a change in how services are provided where the Case Managers directly give services and/or supplies to clients instead of waiting for referrals from program managers. I conducted a workshop with Case Managers to instruct them on how to utilize both the computer and the QRG binder containing the agencies referral information. They also gained knowledge of the client referral page to be handed out to clients empowering them to request the services or supplies themselves. “This is a way to improve a public health agency performance and create healthier communities… [by] having trained staff and dedicated resources” (Public Health Foundation, 2000).

Empowering clients to advocate for themselves is part of creating healthier communities.

Addressing the connection of the Capstone to the University Vision Statement

This capstone addresses the vision and goals of California State University of Monterey Bay. Reflecting on this university’s vision “where all learn from one another in an atmosphere of mutual respect and pursuit of excellence” is the vision model I used for my Capstone project (Vision Driven: CSUMB Vision Statement, 1994). I worked with representatives from several agencies, as well as social workers at MCDSES Aging and Adult Services in an environment of mutual respect for each other to achieve the goal of creating a professional tool - the Quick Referral Guide - to help the Case Managers excel in their job as advocates for their clients.

As a future graduate of CSUMB’s I have the goal of having “…an understanding of interdependence and global competence, distinctive technical and educational skills, the experience and abilities to contribute to California's high quality work force, the critical thinking abilities to be [a] productive citizen, and the social responsibility and skills to be [a] community builder” (Vision Driven: CSUMB Vision Statement, 1994). My capstone addresses “interdependence” when developing the client referral page to empower clients to seek the services and/or supplies for themselves with the help of this professional tool. My capstone project gives the appropriate tool to the Case Managers for them to promote “social responsibility” and be “community builders”. On the other hand, I am the “community builder” leader behind this project that hopefully will be of lasting value to MCDSES Aging and Adult Services and will make a difference in the lives of Monterey County residents.

Major Learning Outcomes addressed on Capstone

Collaboration Major Learning Outcome

The Collaboration major learning outcome is being addressed on this project by working collaboratively with staff at MCDSES Aging and Adult Services, as well as local community agencies providing the services or supplies for MCDSES’s clients. I met with a variety of staff members from participating agencies to learn about their services and gather all necessary information for the QRG. The ability to share resources, expertise and responsibility between all of the participating agencies included in this referral guide are the primary purpose of this major learning outcome (Collaboration MLO).

Information Management Major Learning Outcome

The Information Management major learning outcome states “Information management is the ability to apply computer and Internet technology to health and human services practice” (Information Management MLO). Developing the Quick Referral Guide required computer and Internet technology. I used Microsoft WordPerfect to develop the Quick Referral Guide. I also used Microsoft PowerPoint to deliver a presentation to the Case Managers and another one in the classroom. The QRG is a professional tool to be used at MCDSES Aging and Adult Services.

Cross-Cultural Competency Major Learning Outcome

The Cross-Cultural Competency major learning outcome includes the following statement - “…to engage in a process characterized by mutual respect and sensitivity, to assess the needs and capabilities of culturally diverse populations, and communicate effectively across cultural groups to deliver appropriate health and human services.” This statement expresses my awareness of being culturally sensitive to the populations served by MCDSES (Cross-Cultural Competency MLO). More than half of the population served by this agency is of Hispanic origin and either speak Spanish only or have limited English language speaking ability (A. Jones, personal communication, October 24, 2007).
The QRG referral page is written in Spanish, as well as in English; therefore being of great value to these individuals, as well as the Case Managers working with them.

Evaluation of the Quick Referral Guide

I conducted pre and post-assessment surveys to evaluate the impact and usefulness of the Quick Referral Guide. I created a list of standard questions about the Quick Referral Guide as a tool to facilitate the Case Managers’ job. The questions focused on the effectiveness of having a user friendly referral guide on hand when doing home visits. This was an outcome based evaluation (McNamara, 2002). The focus was to evaluate the time in delivering services before and after the use of the QRG. By improving the delivery of services to the clients with the use of the QRG, I would be enhancing Case Managers’ work. Carrying out a useful program evaluation like the McNamara’s “20-80” rule – 20 percent of the effort generates 80 percent of the results - applies to the evaluation of the QRG (2002). A simple and straightforward evaluation was conducted to reveal the big impact of the project. According to the pre-assessment surveys 35% of the Case Managers stated that the use of a user friendly referral guide would help them expedite services to clients. The majority of the Case Managers were unsure that creating such a tool would be a good idea doubting of its effectiveness. After the six-week implementation period of the QRG, the same question was asked to the Case Managers on the post-assessment surveys. The result was 92%. After using the QRG the Case Managers stated that it had helped them with the referral process. They also stated how useful it is to access all the information from one only one source, saving time to deal with the big case loads each one has.
Recommendations

My recommendation for the continuous usefulness of the QRG is regular updates. Updating the QRG will be a challenge, but a necessity because agency information changes over time. I recommend an online forum within the agency’s website where all Case Managers can post and share information with each other. On the last week of every month the assigned desk duty Case Manager can update the online QRG file, which then can be printed and inserted in the QRG binders of all Case Managers of the entire Aging and Adult Services department. The regular updates of the QRG will ensure current information to continue making a difference in the lives of the clients of Aging and Adult Services.
